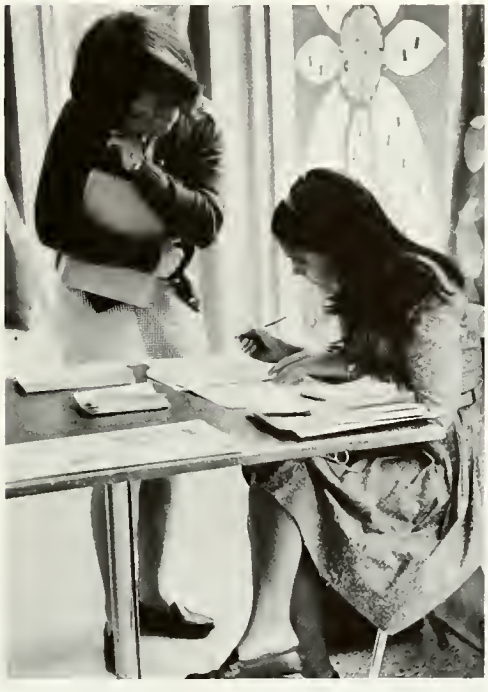
Spiritual Life: Fulfillment of The Total Person

Loyola wishes to instill in her student body a spiritual meaning, one that extends beyond the realms of religion. As we gain further religious knowledge, we also learn to become a more righteous and ethical person. The university is fortunate in having in its staff many fine clergy. They have given many precious moments in their busy schedule to aiding the students. Not even the echo from the bustle and confusion of a party or a school day, can be heard within the serene silence of the chapel. It is a moment in which we can express our gratefulness for all we have.

Campus Life: Routine of Living

We do not recall the everyday events which occur on campus as readily as we would a big weekend or a wild party. Sometimes we are not aware of the little things that are happening every minute, because we have fallen into the "class-day routine". But it is the daily life on campus that plays the most important part at Loyola. Campus life tends to change each individual and subject him to an atmosphere entirely unique to this university. Loyola has a definite personality—one which is on the move. There is a common effort to work, to strive, and finally, to achieve. In the class rooms or during meals, the pace is rapid, and though we may not be conscious of this, it is always there. As each day begins and ends, whether exciting or trivial, we have witnessed something that will remain with us forever.



Parties: Release From Anxieties

One thing Loyola does not lack is a sufficient number of social events. Every weekend offers ample opportunities for students to release the anxieties that weekday classes may have brought on.

Weekend parties begin as early as 3 p.m. on Friday afternoons. At that time students pour in to the Danna Center for the bi-weekly T.G.I.F.—a unique feature of Loyola's social life.

Greek organizations hold parties ranging from formals to the very informal. But, whether the parties' location happens to be a banquet room in one of New Orleans' biggest hotels or the Mississippi River levee, the object is always the same—a good time.

Culture:
Completing the Life of Loyolans

Loyola offers her students a full life, which includes the scholastic, athletic, social, and, befitting a New Orleans university, the cultural. Fr. Engeron's one-man art show, Dr. Corrington's poetry readings, the Writer's Symposium, Dr. Brady's production of "Picnic," Sen. William Fulbright's "Current Opinions and Observations on Vietnam," Glenn Yarbrough's songfest, surrealist Roger Shattuck's "Spiritual Exercise of Walking," and Fanny Flagg's quips—these were some of the cultural events sponsored for diversified Loyolans.

New Orleans: Historic Home of Loyola

Ask any Loyola student and he will tell you—When it comes to campus locales, there is no place like New Orleans.

For fifty-six years the Loyola student has been enjoying the off-campus activities the Cresent City affords. Now in its 250th year, New Orleans' historical significance is one of its many assets.

Where else can students ride on a historic street car for the price of a dime? Where else do students receive a three-day holiday for no other purposes than pre-Lenten revelry? Only in New Orleans.

Bourbon Street, Audubon Park and Lake Ponchatrain—these are a few of the things that make living in the city so enjoyable; a few of the reasons why the Loyola student is glad he is where he is.

Dorms: Home and More

Perhaps the greatest challenge for students entering college is adjusting to dorm life. They are no longer confined within the family circle, but are now a part of a larger family. Whether they adapt quickly or slowly, they are highly rewarded in the end. No matter if it is a card game or a bull session, there is always something happening. There are occasional tensions which do arise, but if overcome, something more than a college degree can be gained.

Athletics: Enthusiasm and Participation

Over the years Loyola has set its own traditions in almost every aspect of college life, with no exception made to athletics. The student body displays its pride and desire for the various sports by its overwhelming enthusiasm and spirit. This pride is especially evident when a team combines its efforts to work as a whole. Aside from a player's self pride, the team realizes victory to be a product of group participation. Behind every team stands the student body, whose presence and support is the essence of any game. From the Inter-collegiate to the Intramural league games, an overall enthusiasm prevails.

People: Lifeblood of Loyola

The Loyola campus abounds with people. "Diversified" might most aptly describe the university's students. They come from different parts of the world, have varying attitudes and beliefs as well as different backgrounds.

For the truly aware Loyolan there comes the realization that this "diversity" affords one of his richest learning experiences. He learns from the fusion of minds and the experience of others.

Although different, the people of Loyola are united under the common goal—the quest for intellectual advancement. It is the people of Loyola who make campus life so meaningful.

A Loyolan's Goal: Discovery and Self-Expansion

No matter how many differences Loyola's students may embody, they all have come to the university for the same purpose. Their common goal is the attainment of higher knowledge.

For this is Loyola's principal function and one it performs effectually—the providing of methods by which its students may go through a process of self-expansion.

The true student looks for knowledge in all available places: textbooks, class rooms and a crowded library. Once finding it he assimilates it with his past learning and emerges a wiser person.

So It Is Recorded

In keeping with the tradition of all yearbooks, to bring to mind the past year, and in keeping with the spirit of '67-'68, let it be recorded that:

A new freshman class invaded Loyola, notable for their lack of socks, their short skirts, and prodigious consumption of alcohol (and subsequent inability to hold it).

The new semester system effected many changes, although the two weeks tacked on to Christmas vacation never materialized. Five papers and six quizzes in two weeks were the norm. Also, one dean ordered strict enforcement of cut regulations, leaving no time for the outside reading so popular with the faculty.

The Rent-a-Cops returned, with shiny silver whistles added to their James Bond bag of tricks. They were called on to defend faculty parking spaces, leaving only token parking for students under the new laws.

The Dean of Women held her annual closed conference, and surprised "her girls" with 87 dictums for the "respectable" college coed. Budding Towers seemed more penitential than palatial.

The Snack Bar became the meeting place for the faculty flower children, and beards flourished on campus. Students were indistinguishable from faculty, and the administration could only sit back and watch under the new "relaxed" dress rules. What else could they do when the teachers had longer hair than most of their students (including girls)?

Saga met growing unrest by calling in a troubleshooter, who caused more trouble than he shot. Plastic cups replaced the china ones, ending the "what will I find in my coffee today" game. Unfortunately, the coffee (?) remained the same.

In the continuing Campaign for Excellence, a new tradition was being established—a yearly tuition raise. Promised improvements were awaited—and awaited. The Beer Parlor became a reality, but the student monicker "The Bomb Shelter" was abandoned by some humorless official.

It all happened. Forget it if you can. Remember it if you will. That's how it was, Loyola 1967-68.

Moving day confusion, long lines and crowded elevators—these were the first things that greeted the incoming Freshman class. Amid the confusion of footlockers and coat hangers, the students began relocating themselves in their new home away from home.

Once clothes were hung and suitcases stored away, the process of becoming a college student began.

In Memoriam

The Very Rev. W. Patrick Donnelly, S.J., Loyola President 1952-61, died September 2 in El Paso, Texas at the age of 57.

Under Fr. Donnelly's administration, station WWL-TV was established and the Field House was completed. Fr. Donnelly initiated the forerunner of the present Campaign for Excellence, the Program for Progress, which began construction of Biever Hall and Danna Center and changed Loyola from a commuter college to a diversified university.

He was a man among men . . . a Southern gentleman, a capable administrator, a good priest, a friend.

Moving into new offices in the basement of the Danna Center, the Council put its many ideas into practice. They made it possible for students to be represented on the university committees and to have a voice in the decisions that were made. All this was a forerunner of the students rights committee which was set up to investigate the possibilities of more student activity in all phases of campus life.

Trains Latin Leaders, Educators

Since its founding in June of 1964 by Rev. Louis J. Twomey, S.J., the Inter-American Center has welcomed more than 590 rural and civic leaders, educators, and welfare workers from Central America to participate in its seminar program. The IAC, the only one of its kind in the United States, operates under the auspices of the Agency for International Development (AID) and the Alliance for Progress. Its method of training Latin leaders in education and leadership techniques pioneered in the training area AID now emphasizes, and has merited high praise from government officials, including numerous citations in the Congressional Record.

This year, nearly 200 participants graduated from the six-week program and turned to their respective countries better equipped to continue their fight against poverty, disease and ignorance. Eventually, their efforts, bolstered by IAC training, can only result in a stronger and more progressive Latin America.

Kappa Beta Gamma

Zeta Chapter of Kappa Beta Gamma national social sorority took in eight new members during their seventh year on the Loyola campus.

Athletically the sisters excelled as they took part in all intramurals and won first place in bowling and softball.

Active in many other fields, Kappa Beta Gamma worked with PKT fraternity to create the "Plank the Pirates" Homecoming display on Freret Street.

Several date parties were sponsored by the sisters during the year in addition to their winter and spring formals. Houseparties in Biloxi were a big part of spring activities.

At Mardi Gras time, KBG opened their Kappa Kitchen to the city's revellers. Located in the French Quarter, the concession stand is an annual money-raising project for the sisters.

The sisters of Phi Phi Phi social sorority celebrated their tenth year anniversary on campus this year. A dessert party with alumni and members was held in the spring.

Taking thirty-one new members into their ranks, Tri Phi began the year with the annual Broomstick Brawl at Halloween. Winter and spring formals highlighted social activities for the girls of the green and white. In February the sisters held their annual "Gay 90's Soiree" at Your Father's Mustache in New Orleans' famous French Quarter.

Working with Beggars fraternity, the sorority built the homecoming display "Wolf 'Em Down" on Freret St.

Talent Night found the sisters working together to present "Fat Girl" in variety competition.

Gamma Eta of

Sigma Sigma Sigma

Sigma Sigma Sigma national social sorority is the oldest sorority on campus having begun 18 years ago as BAE and changing to the Gamma Eta chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma in 1962.

This year the sisters of Tri Sig welcomed 31 new members into their ranks. A series of monthly parties and the winter and spring formals kept the sisters busy socially.

The sisters took second place in the annual Blue Key Talent Night with the skit "Happiness is Going To College," and teamed up with Alpha Delta Gamma fraternity in the Homecoming Display "Pack Pounds Pirates."

The annual charity banquet and bingo which Tri Sigma sponsors provide funds for the operation and maintenance of the Crippled Children's Wing of the North Carolina Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill. This is a major charity project of all 67 Tri Sigma chapters.

Alpha Beta of

Theta Phi Alpha

Theta Phi Alpha national social sorority took twenty-nine new members into its ranks during its eighth year on the Loyola campus.

Beginning the year with their traditional September Send-Off Dance, the sisters then proceeded to capture first place in Homecoming competition. Teamed with UBL fraternity, they built the animated "Cage, Cook and Crumble the Privateers" display on St. Charles Avenue.

Academically the sisters excelled by capturing the University Scholastic Award for sororities. They also won the All-Sports Trophy and participated in all intramural sports.

Theta Phi held its annual Orphan's Picnic in Audubon Park in the spring.

Theta Phi's Winter and White Rose formals highlighted social activities along with houseparties on the Gulf coast.

Women's Pan-Hellenic Council

Officers

President ..... Vicki Vauthier
Recording Secretary ..... Kathy Sullivan
Corresponding Secretary ..... Pat Peltier
Treasurer ..... Carolyn Bereznak
Moderator ..... Miss Rosalie Parrino

Representatives elected by the sororities serve on the Women's Pan-Hellenic Council. Their aim is to coordinate and increase cooperation between the four sororities.

The Council meets weekly in order to discuss such mutual points of interest as rush and coordinating services performed for the University and the community. The Council also serves as a liaison for any grievances which may occur between the social sororities or the school administration.

Inter-Fraternity Council

Officers

President ..... Bernie Phebus
Vice-President ..... Ed Lahey
Secretary ..... Mike Crow
Treasurer ..... Charlie Grey
Sgt. at Arms ..... Rene Louapre
Moderator ..... Mr. Robert Sabolyk

Coordinating and uniting the fraternity community is the goal of the Inter-Fraternity Council. Representatives from each of the five fraternities on the Loyola campus work together to serve Loyola and the brotherhoods.

The IFC encourages academic excellence by presenting an award to the fraternity with the highest academic average for the year. It solves disciplinary problems and rules on rush.

Moderator of the IFC is Dean of Men Robert Sabolyk, who sits with the moderators, presidents, and vice-presidents of the respective fraternities.

Epsilon of

Alpha Delta Gamma

The Brothers of Alpha Delta Gamma national Catholic social fraternity spent an active thirty-fifth year on the Loyola campus.

Working with Tri Sigma sorority, Alpha Delta Gamma built the "Pack Pound Pirates" display on St. Charles Avenue. They took part in all intramurals. Their spring formal was a highlight of spring activities, and they sponsored five days of parties in the old City Hall of New Orleans at Mardi Gras time.

Charitable activities for the fraternity included entertaining the children at the Crippled Children's Hospital during pledge season.

Beggars

The Men of Beggars, the oldest fraternity at Loyola, celebrated their 45th anniversary on campus in conjunction with their spring formal at the Bourbon-Orleans.

Highlighting their anniversary year, the Beggars won second place in Talent Night group competition. Their "Beggars Soul Review" presented the musical talents of the fraternity.

Teamed with Tri Phi, the Beggars built a homecoming display entitled "Wolf 'Em Down." The colorful, animated decoration was erected in front of the Field House on Feret St.

Alpha Sigma of

Phi Kappa Theta

Thirty-two charter members were initiated in March of 1967 into the newest of the social fraternities on campus, the Alpha Sigma Chapter of Phi Kappa Theta National Catholic Fraternity.

Phi Kappa Theta shares the same purposes and ideals as other social fraternities. It offers to the university man the advantages of living in an atmosphere where the theory and practice of the social amenities are encouraged. It is a melange of ostensible heterogeneous individuals united in a unique, a common goal of promoting social and intellectual interchange among its members.

The brothers participated in Homecoming activities this year. Together with KBG sorority they built the "Plank the Pirates" display on Freret.

In embarking within the past year upon a full slate of athletic, social, scholastic and civic events, the men of Phi Kappa Theta have made a place for themselves on the Loyola campus.

Sigma Alpha Kappa

Sigma Alpha Kappa social fraternity celebrated its 45th anniversary on the Loyola campus with a round of social and athletic activities.

Athletically, the brothers excelled by winning the wrestling tournament and capturing the All Sports Trophy.

Annual theme parties, such as the Tom Jones party, the Luau and the Roman Party, kept the brothers busy socially along with picnics and their Sweetheart Formal in the spring.

This year Sigma Alpha Kappa worked with the Freshman girls during Homecoming. Their "Whale the Privateers" display was constructed in the horseshoe on St. Charles Avenue.

Upsilon Beta Lambda

Upsilon Beta Lambda social fraternity accepted 19 members into its brotherhood during its 43rd year on campus.

In keeping with its policy of helping the University and the community, Upsilon Beta Lambda sponsored its annual Orphan's Picnic. The fraternity was active in all intramurals and won the boxing tournament.

The brothers won Talent Night variety competition with their original skit "Madame Butterball." Their colorful and animated Homecoming display won first place among Greek competition. Working with Theta Phi Alpha sorority, UBL built "Cage, Cook and Crumble the Privateers" on St. Charles Avenue.

Socially the fraternity set the pace with their weekly parties, picnics and their annual Blue and Gold Formal.

Reserve Officers' Training Corps

ROTC becomes a Thursday "way of life" for those male students who choose to undergo the rigors of military discipline. Audubon Park becomes a military playground each Thursday afternoon as the battalion has inspection and passes through its maneuvers and drills. This is the first year that ROTC is voluntary; a new and better spirit characterizes the new freedom of choice as the rifles click and the drums roll.

Lynn Fitzpatrick

Miss Wolf is the ideal Loyola coed. She is active, friendly, loyal and studious. Lynn Fitzpatrick, Miss Wolf 1968, is a math major from the Crescent City who has involved herself with Loyola and its people for four years.

Lynn, holding a 3.6 cumulative average is a member of Theta Phi Alpha, Cardinal Key, the Student Union, Rho Phi Theta, and Delta Epsilon Sigma. This sweet and charming coed was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities in her senior year. She has been a member of the Wolfettes, Lambda Sigma Lambda, the Women's Residence Council, and has been on the Dean's List for three years.

Cheri Weil

The title of Campus Queen is bestowed on Loyola's loveliest coed, and the dark, striking beauty of Cheri Weil certainly proves she is well deserving of the honor. This 5'7" native New Orleanian is no newcomer to the Campus Beauty scene as she has been a Campus Maid and the Sweetheart of Alpha Delta Gamma.

Cheri, a senior in Medical Technology, is interning this year at Touro Infirmary in the hospital's Chemistry Department. Although she is kept quite busy with her work, she has not ceased in taking part in a wide variety of campus activity. She has been involved in such activities as the Student Union, Alpha Delta Theta, the Women's Recreation Association and Phi Phi Phi Social Sorority.

Mural Football

Six fraternities and seven independent teams entered mural football competition this season. After several weeks of zealous contests ADG emerged victorious in the tournament finals.

Football Provides Fun, Action

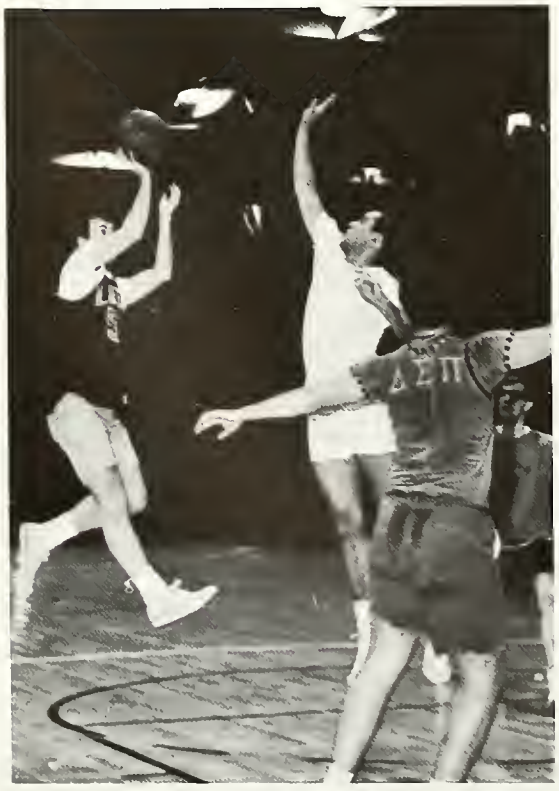
Basketball

Although suffering from a cramped schedule and forced into a double elimination tournament, mural basketball was as exciting and enjoyable as ever. A total 26 teams entered the first round of play, from which 13 survived to enter the tournament.

Above: A battle of height where inches make the difference, as these two quickly discover. Right: PKT appears to be running all over their opponents, or is someone lying down on the job? Below: ADG fights hard to prevent a basket in what looks more like a ballet step than a fight to the finish. Below right: The ball's the thing in this attempt to keep it in bounds as other players can only look on helplessly.



Upper left: Players wait in expectation of a loose ball that will momentarily be forthcoming from the scuffle that is underway. Middle left: It's kind of like follow the leader, but the high steppers always win. In this case it means coming up with the ball. Below: No one here seems to approve of holding hands; maybe they feel that it just isn't the right time or place. Lower left: Who's got the ball? Two independents dispute possession, even to the point of stepping on a few toes. Lower right: You have to try a little harder to block a shot as 41 does and 44 unhappily finds out.

Mural Basketball

UBL Wins Boxing

Intramural's bloody, bruising battles occurred again last spring with UBL's punching pugilists emerging the overall victors. As is demonstrated in the shots on the following pages the tournament was a smashing success.

Right: It's all over for Brent West as Bill Belsom comes through with a devastating right. Below: An eye for an eye. Above: If you miss, you lose, as is illustrated by this hotly contested battle to the finish.

Boxing

SAK Takes Wrestling

A growing interest in wrestling is making 'mural competition in this sport more exciting and interesting each year. The overall winner of the tourney were the SAK grapplers.

Women's Intramurals

Girls Take to Cinders for Second Annual Meet

Powder Puff

Excitement reached a fever pitch once again this year with Powder Puff Football. Screaming, scratching and fumbling along, Loyola coeds exhibited talent and muscles they never knew they had. Even if resistance was low, spirit was high as the Heavenly Scents trounced the Hell Cats 8-0 in a game few of them will ever forget.

Basketball

Below: Four arms, four legs, and Hilda Korner waiting for the ball to come down. Right: A co-ed gets another two points. Far right: Number 3 finally got it.

Coed Intramural Basketball brings a lot of bruises, a lot of laughs and a bit of mortal combat as sororities and independents vie for points towards the athletic trophy. This year's competition was no exception as temper and energy reigned supreme.

Co-Ed Swimming

-Editor's 30-

As the final moments of the production stage of this book draw to a close, my feelings are a mixture of happiness and relief: happiness from the knowledge of a job well done; relief in the knowledge that it is finished. This year we, the WOLF staff, have attempted to present an accurate and complete picture of Loyola. I feel that we have succeeded.

The foundation of any yearbook operation is the photography staff. This year photography editor Ed Curda proved this statement true and more. There aren't words that can express my thanks to this boy for the amount of work that he has done. Without him we would never have gotten off the ground. His staff—Bill Hunter, Pete Perea, Rick Lind, Bob Marshall and Patty Rubiano—put in long hours of work and did an outstanding job despite incomplete darkroom facilities. Assistant editor Karla Vulliet provided a steadying influence for the staff, and she did a fine job for her first year on the WOLF. Two four-year veterans bowed out in fine style this year. Mary Fiser, favorites editor, performed her usual miracle, and sports editor Guy Labatut came in at the beginning of the second semester and saved that section from total ruin. Copy editor Mary O'Loughlin provided more than copy, and she carried more than her share of the burden as deadline approached. Danny Philips and Diane Donovan both did fine jobs on their sections. Paul Muncey not only did a good job on the Greek section, but he was always ready to help any place he could. This would not be complete without thanking the staffers who did anything and everything they could for the book. These girls were the backbone of the staff. They are Beth Collins, Barbara Bell, Carol Osborne, Kathi Kernan, Marsha Tacon, Mary Catherine Wicker, Barbara Georges and Elaine Kolp. I also would like to extend my special thanks to Russ Cresson for his darkroom facilities and for pictures when we got in a bind. Special thanks go to Mr. Charlie Brennan and the Public Relations Department for all the assistance they gave us in providing pictures. Last but not least, I want to thank Fred Messina and John McCollister for invaluable photographic assistance; Ron Grubbs, Jim Brice, Dennis Hansen, Raymond Poret and Steve Attaya for their indispensable help with photography; and Bobby Dupont for the many hours he put in right before deadline. Without all of these people, this book would never have become a reality. Thank all of you.

This marks the end of another WOLF, another year. It has been a worthwhile experience for all of us on the staff, for myself especially. I hope that this book will be a worthwhile experience for all connected with Loyola, but, at any rate, this is Loyola 1968.
